

MUSIC

MUSIC TO MY EARS

What is music to you? Will you dance if you hear it? Perhaps sing along? Or maybe you just want to close your eyes and listen. Think about it, what would life be like without it? Do you have an opinion on it? What is your opinion on it? I love music. Because I think that without music this world would be... well- boring. Plus, music is special to me and many other people in many different ways.

MUSIC TEACHES YOU

A psychologist's blog on www.psychcentral.com states that music can teach us many things about ourselves. And music has taught me that there are many ways to express yourself.

My dad, Sean, a musician began to do music because his dad was a professional musician, and Sean's parents introduced it to him at a very young age, (5). Then Sean learned that he really loved music, and that music was his true passion all along.

MUSIC CHANGES PEOPLES LIVES

In first grade my teacher wanted us to do a project about dogs and my friend Isabella came to my house and we recorded a song that we wrote together. I chose to write and record a song about dogs and it was the first time I ever recorded a song.

I asked my dad, “How has music changed you as a person?” His response was, “I don’t know...for sure it’s kept me humble and compassionate. I’m certainly in touch with my emotions”. If you think about all the amazing music artists in this world would you realize that they used to be an average person in this world like everyone else?

MUSIC, A TASTE OF THE FUTURE

In conclusion, I think music is great and fun way to express yourself as you learn how important it is in the world and what life would be like without it. And I hope in the future, everyone will see it. I love music, and I hope you do too.
