

Buildings should not be judge by what what the façade look like but of the inside

By Jerelly Rojas

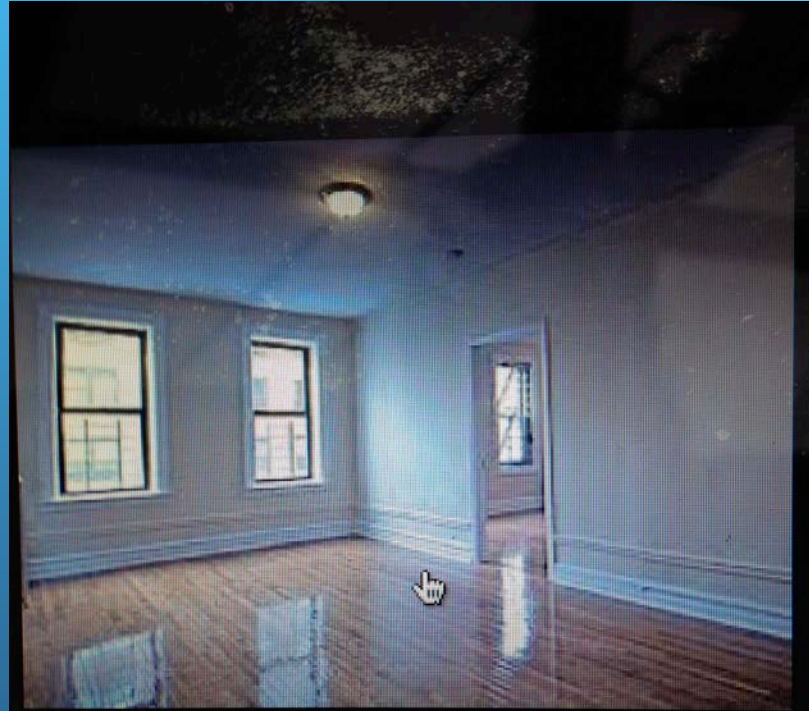

Two different kind of beauty

What do we have here?

Not all of buildings facades only look beautiful but in the inside to

June 13, 2014

- Jerelly Rojas
-
- When you are searching for a comfortable
- Apartment to live in you should be careful. Some
- Apartments facades look really beautiful and clean
- But the insides might need a little bit of more work or
- A lot that is not admittedly seen.
- Here's a good example, one of the 5th grade substitute teachers Mentioned that she rented an apartment with her fiancé. After a few months they moved in she started
- Seeing signs of mice in the apartment. Luckily she was able
- To fix all of the problems and in a couple of months she moved.
- Here's another good example, my grandfather bought an apartment. It had a beautiful façade and a beautiful
- Inside. Then in a little while he was anxious to move because the walls were tarring apart also the toilet wasn't working well. At the end he decided to move.
- All together, when you are looking for a home to live you have to be careful because the façade might be clean but the inside might need a little bit of work.