

How to make a disaster cake

Step 1: find some ingredients and a big cup

step 2: when you are mixing make sure that you don't drop your flour !

Step 3: make sure that you aren't forgetting your egg when you are mixing

Step 4: time to put the cup in the microwave

Step 5: make sure you don't burn your cake !

Step 6: time for decorating 😊

Step 7: oh no, my whip cream is melting

Step 8: just put some sprinkles on and it will be fine

Step 9: ask someone to try it and cut through it

Step 10: ask them if they liked it !

How to make a disaster cake

Every baker has done it. Burn the cake or forget to put something in the dough. Even decorate it wrong. It has happened to all of us! That's what I did. I made a disaster cake! So I think this would happen if you try to make a disaster cake... in a cup.

Try to imagine you are home on a Saturday with your baby sitter or childminder (whatever) Because your parents took a trip to Hawaii 3 days ago. They are coming back on Monday. You are bored. You don't know what to do. Then you come up with an idea. You'll make a cake! But then you remember that you are terrible at baking. But you have confident...so you DON'T CARE. So you go to your kitchen and find some ingredients.

You just start mixing some ingredients together in a cup ( because all of the balls are in the dishwasher). But you forget to put your chocolate chips in your dough so you hurry to do that. Then you put your cup in your microwave. Wait 5 minutes but you forget that it only needs 4 minutes. So you run to the microwave and take the cup out of the microwave. But it's burned... but you just say "whatever".

You start decorating it. You hate frosting so you decided to use whipped cream instead. After putting the whipped cream on you realized that your whipped cream is kind of melting... but you can fix it with some sprinkles. Now it's finished. It looks like barf but you still want somebody to taste it. So you ask your babysitter to taste it. She will properly just look at it and then say "NO THANKS". But now you have burned, barf-looking cake for yourself.