

MOMS

By: Jake Frimmer

I think that moms are the most annoying things in the world. Forget about that jackhammer outside. Okay, that's a little annoying, but not as much as moms.

Has your mom ever forced you to wear something you did not want to wear? Or has she forced you to do something you don't want to do? Well, I surveyed four people and they all said that their moms force them to do stuff that they do not want to do. If you're thinking, NO, then you better put this down, because it is not for you. ☺!!!!!! If you're thinking, YES, keep on reading and when you are done show it to your mom.

As I think about this topic the first thing that pops up in my head is getting kissed by your mom in public. You might think that is cute but it is not!!!! Picture this... you're walking down the street toward school, and your mom says, "Kiss me", and all your friends are looking at you. Embarrassing, I know! I also think that it is a waste of time, just let your poor kid go to school. No offense to you moms.

I think moms were put on earth just to annoy you and tell you what to do!!!!!! Have you ever heard the saying "it does not say your life will be fair on the back of your birth certificate". Well I just think that you should write on your child's birth certificate in big letters Your Life Should Be Fair!!

Hey moms ever heard of freedom of choice! Well, it exists and applies to kids too. So I think you should let your kids have the freedom of choice and let them pick what they want to wear and do whatever they want to do. The kids will only take over every candy store in New York City. Well, maybe that might be too much!

Your mom might still be annoying but, you should still love her no matter what.
