

Metro Card World

By: Jordan Britt

To ride the trains and buses in New York City you need to pay your fare with a Metro card. Metro cards are cards that you swipe in the turnstile and it opens so you can get on the train. Metro cards are very annoying. Its like we should not have them. Almost every time when I swipe the card, I have to swipe it three times. Swipe again at this turnstile. Swipe again at this turnstile. On the third swipe the machine tells me I have to put more money on the metro card. Thank you swiping machine you really help me save my money, my time, and me. Can't we just use our credit/debit cards? I think we have too many cards in the world. It's like you wasted all of this money and this won't be the last time it happens!

Sometimes after I get dress I walk to the train and I look in my wallet and I see that I lost my metro card even when I spend all of my money on it. Sometimes when I'm in someone's car I take out my wallet and I forget it in the car and then I don't have my metro card when I need it. Why do we need the metro cards can we just put five dollar bill or coins like buses do. Metro cards are annoying duhh. I wish that the metro cards problem would stop.

When I put my metro card in the machine sometimes it bends up my card. Also, every time I put my metro card inside the machine, it comes out all scratched up making it not work the next time. Why do we need metro cards? It's almost waste money. Thank you metro card you really sure did help me. Metro cards have to go.

Sometimes my metro card expires too quickly: like in a week quickly. The other day I was late to church because its all about the metro cards! Really metro cards its like this is a metro card world. Picture this, you are about to get to the subway but you see that swiping machine. You have your metro card, for once, then you swipe your metro card in that machine but when you swipe your card it says it was expired like about 10 years ago. Face it people metro cards are sometimes evil. Can we ever have anything for free in your life? I think metro cards should be banned. Metro cards stink. People should be saving their money for their bills.
