

A decorative graphic on the left side of the slide consisting of white lines and circles on a blue gradient background, resembling a circuit board or a stylized tree structure.

FOOD AROUND THE WORLD

ALL THE FOOD YOU KNOW, BUT KNOW NOTHING ABOUT...

BY: MADISON MIKAYELIAN

Have you ever thought about all of the different foods there are? A dish could be spicy, sweet, salty, or sour. It may be tall, short, small, big, thick, or thin. Have you ever wondered how those dishes could affect you?

Round, hard bagels with lox are a dish at Jewish celebrations. Soft mixed flavored sushi is a traditional Japanese food, delighting everyone who tries a piece. This shows people of a different culture the wonders of Japanese culture- a wonder that is in many more cultures than comes to mind. You look around at that same pizza place, that “it” spot. As you look at this slide show think about all the other cultures you could try and then try them.

Beef and broccoli boiled or fried in deep rich teriyaki sauce is a...

BEEF TERIYAKI

Teriyaki is a way of Japanese cooking in which you boil, fry, grill or roast fish or sliced meat in a special teriyaki sauce made from soy sauce, sugar, mirin (sweet Japanese wine) and sake (rice wine).

A round circular bread sphere covered in cream cheese or lox...

Bagels originated in Poland, but became popular with Jewish groups because of their strict diet. The event that shaped the bagel the most though was the Broadway musical the Bagel and Lox- they even handed out bagels during the show.

Artistically decorated with sauces and wrapped in rice...

Sushi originated in Southeast Asia as a way to preserve fish using rice. The idea soon traveled through China to Japan. They then made rolls like the California Roll for westerners who were weary of the idea.

Backed clumps of dough with a surprise filling inside...

Some people think that dumplings originated in the 17th century in the United Kingdom. They were made so you could eat in a cheaper way and still eat. Originally they were made with meat, but now you can put anything in a dumpling. There is a flavor for everyone.

A folded thin pancake stuffed and decorated...

Crepes originated in France, but are popular all of Europe. They are made on a hot metal dish that is heated electronically. Originally it was heated over a fire place. You can put anything you want in a crepe- from sweet and sugary, to salty and savory.

A tasty looking soup...

Miso soup is a popular Japanese soup served as an appetizer at most Japanese or Chinese restaurants. Miso is its primary ingredient. Miso soup may have developed in china and brought to japan by Buddhists around the year 500ad.

