

VINTAGE COMIC BOOKS AND ITEMS

By Nicholas Kaplan

INTRODUCTION

All these collectibles and comic books are rare to find in today's society. You can't just walk up to a stand and purchase these items for 75 cents. But some of these items aren't even worth 75 cents some are worth thousands of dollars or more. They are extremely valuable. That's why I believe that they bring value as well as joy and some inspiration to people. They can always bring up conversation as well as opinion.

The first comic book was made in the 1930's. It was called "first comics." It was so new that people had no clue what it was. Afterwards comics started to become popular. There were comic stands, it brought so much happiness to the world. As time went on there was superhero's and monsters and Popeye. It changed a lot of views and lives.

Vintage Items could be from any time. It could be from 1931 or 1,000 years ago. Depending on how old or valuable these items are they could bring tons of people a good feeling.

This particular photo was pieces of the old Yankee stadium. The Yankee's are a great team, so many people look up to them as hero's. Others get inspired by their athleticism and push themselves to be their best. "I will always love this artifact. They were my favorite team growing up this is the reason I will never forget the old stadium." Says my mother. She owns this piece of old Yankee stadium. Not only is this a great thing for children but it is valuable., Extremely Valuable

This is a Character on the world famous show, The Simpsons created by Matt Groening. As the show enters its 28th season this wind up plastic toy becomes more and more valuable. My dad had purchased toy because he LOVES the Simpsons.

This character is Homer Simpson the immature father of Bart, Lisa and Maggie that the world has been loving for 27 years.

This imperial Roman coin was handcrafted between the years 337-361. This was also the time of Constantianus 2 ruler. This is over 1000 years old.

My Mom had purchased this 18 years ago. She knows the Roman empire inside and out this helped her understanding.

This superhero, Falcon was the first African American superhero. This might've made a lot of other African American's feel strongly about one of their own in a world famous comic publisher.

He had came out in 1969 in a captain America comic. Then later renamed his own series The Falcon. Afterwards he became a lot more popular he appeared in movies, video games etc.

My dad the man who had bough this particular comic. He says "This is one of my favorite superhero's this is a spectacular comic book."

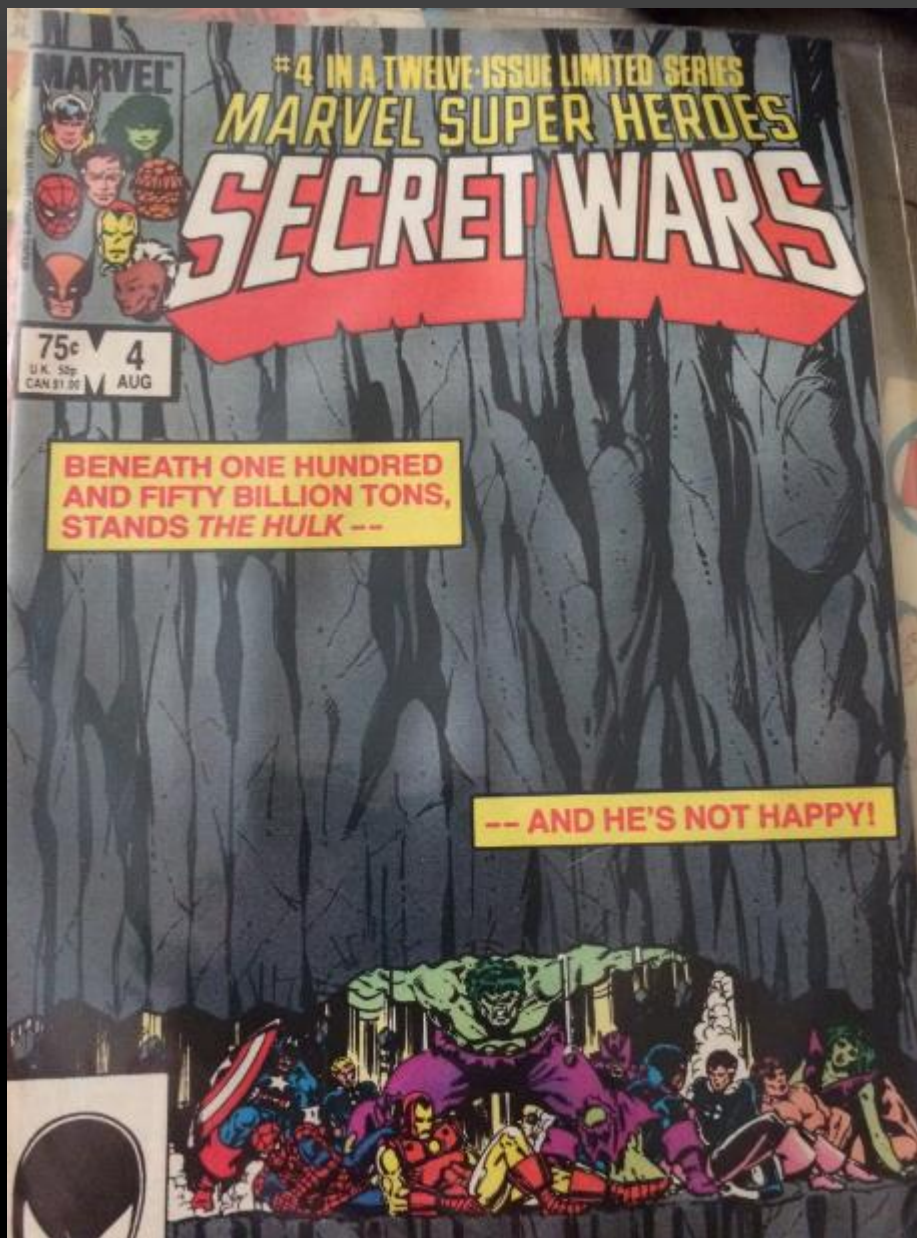

This evil looking clown is the Joker, a arch enemy of Bat Man. This is the 2nd issue of the joker. Quite valuable. He's valuable because he is almost every single bat man movie. Also he's been in a bunch of video games.

He's a very important character...the 8th supervillan ever!

My father had purchase this for only 25 cents. In a couple of years, this will be worth tons of cash. He is not a fan of the joker; he just did for the value of the comic.

This comic is part of a 12 part series. It's about a war between superhero's.

The comic may show some value; it was made in 1984. This is the 4th issue of a huge series.

Through out this page flipping excitement filled chronicles a lot of action occurred. Most people loved this series.

We have not own this for very long after we saw Captain America: Civil War we had went to a comic shop and purchased this for $75.

This is a postcard is from 1931. It is from Yankee stadium. This says "wish you were here." It holds a lot of value judging by its age.

A cool thing to notice about the note is that you could see a slight smudge on the lower left.

Anyway, Me and my mom had purchased this at a thrift shop 4 years ago.

This spider man comic is action packed. It has multiple super hero's and villains

As you can see this isn't that valuable it's the 157th issue. But I actually read this, it was a very good issue. This probably is not as valuable of the year, the content is the valuable part.
