Flowers are a central in photography, It's one of the most beautiful things in the world. Each flower is formed by the point of view of the spectator. Flowers are used in a lot of ways such as worshiping goddesses, for new births, for funerals, for weddings, or decorations. Flowers also symbolize things. Red roses are given as a symbol of love, beauty, and passion. Daisies are a symbol of innocence. Flowers are beautiful in NYC, I guess that's what I am trying to say. People have a lot of usage for flowers and give them symbols because they're beautiful. The streets and sidewalks are all covered with beautiful flowers. I have seen them in so many ways in NYC. The archaeofructus lianoninsensis are one the first flowers and existed about 125 million years ago! Now the longest living flower is an orchid and can live as long as a tree! I am not saying flowers are not beautiful outside of NYC, but it just gives me that strong feeling that I can't explain. Today I will share that feeling with you.
