

SHARKS

By Alfred Hoti

Sharks are one of the fiercest animals in the world and people are really afraid of them. But it is the sharks who should be afraid of people. More people kill sharks in a year than sharks kill people. Maybe if people knew more about these big animals, they wouldn't want to kill them. Here is some important information about sharks.

Why sharks kill people?

Sharks kill people because they are part blind so they mistake how you look so you look like a seal to them. They also would try to kill you to protect their pups. They like your blood, not your body.

How long is the biggest shark and how long is the smallest shark?

The biggest shark is 44 feet long and the smallest shark is 4 feet long.

Sharks are not as scary as you think?

You would definitely rather get bitten by a human than a shark. The most harmless shark is the whale shark and the basking shark. Sharks won't attack you unless you try to harm them or if they feel scared.

What is the fastest shark and what is the most dangerous shark?

The fastest shark is the mako shark and the most dangerous shark is the tiger shark and the great white shark.

Why people kill sharks and how many sharks are there left in the world?

People kill sharks for food like shark soup. There are 3,500 sharks left in the world.

What species are sharks and where they live and what they mostly eat?

Sharks are fishes but fishes are not sharks. Sharks are carnivores. Sharks eat meat, not vegetables. Sharks won't eat you. They will hurt you. Some sharks live in fresh water and some don't.

Shark Teeth.

Sharks have two rows of teeth so when one falls out the other one slides in. Sharks have spikes around their teeth so they can do more damage and tear apart the big fish they catch and eat.

So you see, now that you know about these creatures, maybe you won't be so afraid of them and maybe you will help to protect them.
