

Should Field all Trips be Educational?

By Mirabelle Altshuler

I think field trips should be fun and educational. I believe students in any type of school go somewhere from time to time, but also learn something! Do you remember a special time when you went on a fun and educational field trip? Field trips can be fun and you can learn a lot. Usually classes have field trips every two or three months! But I think they should have field trips every month, at least. Make sure the field trip is affordable! That's why I think classes should have field trips that are fun while classes learn! It's important to have fun, but don't forget to learn!

First of all, if a student needs a break from learning, a perfect place to take a break that is fun and educational is to go on a field! Field trips should be fun and educational because park owners want to attract visitors to their amusement park or museum, don't you agree? Park owners don't want their visitors sleeping or staring off into space! Sometimes people need a break, it's natural. What if your teacher doesn't let you have a break, write them a persuasive letter, like I am! It works. But if teachers give them a short break the students will get tired all over again! How humiliating!

More importantly, teachers should give students a break from tests, assignments and other stressful things. If kids get over pressured, the kids will get overwhelmed and won't concentrate! Another reason why teachers should give students a break is because if teachers don't give students a break they will start to get boring around their friends and then they will lose their friends! They will sit around all day doing nothing! There will be no fun in his or her life!

On the other hand, if the children don't get any field trips they will tell their parents their school isn't good and then their parents will take them out of that school and then kids will have to leave their friends! And then the school will lose money! What do you think about that? In fact a school cannot keep the building if they don't have enough students and money donations from bake sales!

In fact, if you want a field trip to be a perfect field trip, the teachers should pick a perfect place! Which is fun and educational. Ask them with a letter! The reason why you should have a good field trip location is because teachers want their students to have a good time! If you are a good teacher you would not want you're students to get bored or stare off into space! You want them to have fun, not be bored and not concentrating! You should try to pick a place where people are kid friendly! Not grumpy and mean! Pick a good place!

You would want to go on field trips because you can get to know one of you classmates better and become friends! And that will come in handy when you're in partnerships!

Overall, children need to have a break! It depends what type of school they go to school in school in! if you go to a good school they will let you have field trips! Kids cannot spend all their time on pop quizzes! There are so many neat places for field trips! If you agree, write a persuasive letter. You can get a field trip, so start taking field trips now.
